Announcement: Associate Editor leaving position in Physical Review C

After more than five years of serving the community as Associate Editor of Physical Review C, W. Gary Love has decided to leave his position. Gary was primarily responsible for theoretical papers concerning nuclear reactions, including electron, nucleon and light-ion scattering, fusion, fission, and production of superheavy nuclei. We are deeply grateful for his wisdom as an editor and for his efforts toward making Physical Review C a better journal.
